EXPLANATORY NOTES

The Commercial Travellers' Association of Canada was incorporated by chapter 96 of the statutes of 1874. It is registered as a fraternal benefit society under the provisions of the Canadian and British Insurance Companies Act. Chapter 120 of the statutes of 1882, which is now being amended, authorized the Association to provide mortuary benefits for its members. A group of by-laws relating to the payment of mortuary benefits was included as a schedule to the said Act of 1882.

The Canadian and British Insurance Companies Act now provides adequate safeguards through supervision and examination by a qualified actuary, which said provision did not exist in 1882. It is thought that the requirement of approval by the Governor in Council to amendments of the said by-laws may now reasonably be dispensed with, since it serves no essential purpose.

Section 10 of the Act of 1882 reads as follows:

"10. The by-laws set forth in the schedule to this Act may be amended by the said Association as provided by its Act of incorporation and by-laws, but subject always to the approval of the Governor in Council, and so that the said amendments are not contrary to anything in this Act contained."
